Fund Highlights

- The Petroleum Fund of Timor-Leste was established in 2005. It functions as a savings and stabilization fund.
- The Fund's strong transparency and oversight provisions, which include a Petroleum Fund Consultative Council that monitors fund activity and published external audits, help safeguard the Fund's assets.
- Withdrawals from the Fund are based on a calculation of Estimated Sustainable Income, which limits government spending from oil revenues to the interest earned on the country's petroleum wealth (the value of fund assets plus the value of oil under the ground). However, the rule is flexible; withdrawals in excess of the rule are allowed if justified to parliament.

 The Fund has a minimum 3 percent annual real return target on its investments. Strict investment rules help minimize risk of losses and year-to-year volatility in the Fund's value.

Operational Laws, Rules and Policies

Timor-Leste has some of the world's most detailed deposit and withdrawal rules. They help improve government accountability and macroeconomic stability.

Fund Deposit Rules<sup>5</sup>

Funds deposited into the Petroleum Fund consist of:

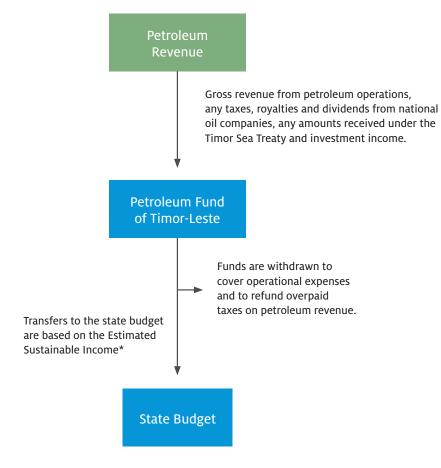

- Gross revenue, including from taxes, from any petroleum operations including prospecting, exploration, development, exploitation, transportation, sales and exports of petroleum by the government of Timor-Leste.
- Any taxes, royalties, dividends or other amounts paid by a national oil company from petroleum operations.
- Any amount received under the terms of the Timor Sea Treaty between Timor-Leste and Australia.
- Any income from the Fund's investments.
- Any other amounts received that are directly related to petroleum resources, but not already covered by the categories listed above.

Fund Withdrawal Rules<sup>6</sup>

- Funds can only be withdrawn from the Petroleum Fund for three purposes:
  - Transfers from the Petroleum Fund to the state budget.
  - Covering the operational expenses of the Fund's operational manager, the Central Bank of Timor-Leste.
  - Refunding any overpaid taxes received as part of petroleum revenue.
- The size of transfers to the state budget is determined using a formula called the Estimated Sustainable Income (ESI), which is currently defined as 3 percent of the value of Timor-Leste's petroleum wealth. The government cannot withdraw more than the ESI in any given year unless a justification is made to parliament. This withdrawal rule is designed to limit government spending from oil revenues to the interest earned on the country's petroleum wealth (the value of fund assets plus the value of oil under the ground).
- The government must justify to parliament any transfers to the budget that exceed the ESI. In this case, the government must also explain how excess withdrawals will be offset by reductions in transfers in subsequent years.

Operational Laws, Rules and Policies

Flow of Funds

*Currently defined as 3 percent of the value of Timor-Leste's petroleum wealth.

Investment Laws, Rules and Policies

Investment Authority

Investment Objectives

The Fund's assets are expected to generate a real rate of return of at least 3 percent per year. At the same time, the Fund should meet its sustainability objective by minimizing investment risk and maintaining a constant real long-term value.<sup>9</sup>

Investment Allocation

The benchmark asset allocation as of March 2013 is 72.5 percent fixed income and 27.5 percent equity. According to the Minister of Finance, the benchmark allocation for equity will gradually be increased to 40 percent by June 2014.<sup>10</sup>

Investment Strategy<sup>11</sup>

- At least half of the Fund is to be invested in bonds, fixed-income securities and deposits held with financial institutions that have credit ratings of at least a BBB- or Baa3 according to Standard and Poor's, Fitch and Moody's.
- No more than half of the Fund is to be invested in listed equities, which must be traded in a regulated financial market. The Fund should not hold more than 5 percent of the stock of any one company.
- No more than 5 percent of the Fund can be invested in other types of investments. Such investments must be approved by the Minister of Finance.
- No more than 3 percent of the Fund can be invested in any one company or issuer of debt, unless it is sovereign debt.
